Internet Explorer 8 "Compatibility View"

Microsoft has recently released Internet Explorer 8 which has created problems for many internet users. IE8 includes a new rendering engine that unfortunately is not always backwards compatible with existing web applications. The result is web pages that do not open correctly.

Fortunately, IE8 includes a "compatibility view" which allows web pages that do not open correctly to be recovered and function properly. Compatibility view can be turned on by clicking on the "broken page" button to the right of the address bar, next to the "refresh/reload" button (on most computers).

Do You Know There Are Other Web Browsers?

I believe that Mozilla Firefox & Safari are safer, faster web browsers than Internet Explorer (IE). There are many web browsers out there to choose from and everyone has their favorite. The article, "Internet Explorer 8 Compatibility View", refers to yet another glitch found with IE8. IE8 is constantly being updated due to bugs and security glitches. Because IE8 is the most popular web browser, it is specifically targeted by spyware; just as the popular PC is targeted with more viruses than are Macs.

The creators of Mozilla Firefox claim it to be faster, safer, and smarter than Microsoft's Internet Explorer. It is packed with features like anti-malware, anti-phishing, private browsing, and faster page loads.

Safari is the web browser created by Apple. Apple claims Safari to be the world's fastest web browser. The great thing about Safari is that it can be used with Mac and PC! The speed alone has me using Safari. It has a very sleek user-friendly interface and is capable of automatically checking spelling and grammar.

Many people may not know it but it is okay to have multiple browsers on your computer at the same time without any conflicts. Don't be afraid to try them all and pick your favorite. In this day and age with our computers under constant attack, there is no reason not to make the switch from Internet Explorer to Firefox or Safari!
